

Seventh Consecutive
Time in 2007

Patuxent River, Maryland

Who: Joe “Just Joe” Brannan, PMA-207 and the AUVSI Seafarer Chapter

What: “Sixth Annual AUVSI Competition”

The Chapter again teams with the local Association for Unmanned Vehicle Systems International (AUVSI) Seafarer Chapter to conduct the 2007 AUVSI International Colligate Undergraduate Student Unmanned Aerial Vehicle (UAV) Competition on June 18 - 21, 2008 at the United States Navy’s Webster Field in St. Mary’s County, Maryland. This year’s competition features 18 colligate teams from around the globe. Joe will be briefing the Chapter on the overall competition, and how the Chapter can help provide staff to support the registration and staging of the competition. AUVSI continues this student UAV Competition aimed at stimulating and fostering interest in unmanned aerial vehicle systems, technologies and careers. The focus is on engaging students in a challenging mission, requiring the design, fabrication and demonstration of a system capable of completing a specific autonomous aerial operation. Student teams from around the world will be judged based on their system design and vehicle performance, and have the opportunity to interact with top UAV designers, engineers, scientists and Navy leadership. Please come, invite friends, and show your support.
